

Chad Smith

May 5, 1972 - June 13, 2020

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

KM

“ My name is Kayla. Chad was my biological Father. I met him when I was 4 almost 5. I remember the day, still to this day. I remember meeting Dale before he passed. He welcomed me with open arms and so much love. I remember the day meeting my sweet brother Casey, and we instantly had a connection and have always loved each other and yearned to be together though we were always kept apart due to people and circumstances. I have some good memories of Chad that I will forever get to keep. I just wanted him to get sober and do what's right in the world. That's all I ever wanted was for my real dad to get better and beat this never ending battle. I prayed so hard for him to beat his addiction. My real Father passed away from a drug overdose in Memphis TN! His brother lied to me, their entire family lied to me. This should not be covered up. I had every right to know what happened to my father and I was lied to. I didn't have a choice to have my father buried. They just burned his body to ashes and his kids were given no choice! I will forever regret the way I did some things and I wish everyday he would come back and I could hug him and just tell him I'm sorry and no matter what, I did love him! I always respected that I wasn't accepted by that side of the family, and I know they owe me nothing. But at the end of the day that was my blood father and I had every right to know!!

Kayla McNeil-O'Hagan - April 22, 2022 at 08:08 PM