A celebrated journalist and passionate educator, Pamela left an indelible mark on the cultural and academic life of Memphis. As the longtime Food Editor of Memphis Magazine, she brought the city's culinary landscape to life through her beloved column, "Memphis Stew." With a distinctive blend of insight and elegance, she highlighted the stories of chefs, artisans, and home cooks, helping to shape and preserve the rich food culture of the region. There, she created and taught the university's first course in food writing—an innovative contribution that inspired generations of journalism students. Her mentorship and dedication to education left a lasting impression on all who had the privilege to learn from her. Pam published hundreds of articles in local, regional, and national magazines, weeklies, and newspapers. She was a certified Memphis Area Master Gardener and an arborist with the Tennessee Urban Forestry Council. Her dedication was honored through TUFC certification for "Pamela Denney's Fair Meadow Arboretum," a living testament to her love for nature.
