“ Hi dad. After my mom and I left when I was still a toddler, that was the last time I was with you in person. From there, we didn't stay in contact. Over the years I reached out and we talked on the phone, but we never had a father/daughter relationship. Even though we weren't close, this is really hitting me and it hurts bad. I always cared and I always thought of you. I always wanted to have a relationship with you but things were complicated. I feel like a piece of me is missing. You were taken away too soon and too young. Despite the past, I love you. I'm not mad at you. We don't have any bad blood between us. I just hope you are finally at peace. We all miss you down here and hope you're looking down watching over all of us.
