“ today is 1 year you went to be with the lord. I know I should be ecstatic but I guess I am too selfish. I never knew I would absolutely hurt from this. I never got to chance to show you soberly how our later years could be. I know what true love is. I know how to love someone more than myself. I know what it is like to daydream for the time we will be reunited. If I could bring you back or visit or just hear your voice feel your touch smell your cologne I would receive all that I could ever want in this life. I miss you baby!
